PEACE AGREEMENT 1

Focus on Vulnerable Groups

INTRODUCTION

Data: PA-X Corpus

Data Holder: BADANJAK Sanja

Data context:

Texts of all agreements + metadata:
Date
Country
Region
Stage of negotiations
And any human-coded information about the content, in quantitative form

Design Goal

As a propaganda material, it is aimed at the broad masses of peace-loving people. Call everyone to pay attention to the interests of the vulnerable people in war-torn areas.Call on the government to put forward more pragmatic policies to protect vulnerable groups when signing a peace agreement.

DATA ANALYSIS

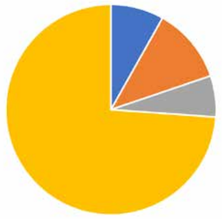
Refugees/ displaced persons

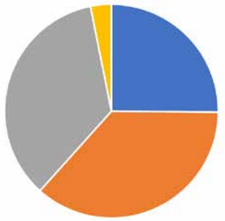


- the agreement deals with issues related to refuges/displaced persons in a substantive and substantial way, providing details on implementation modalities; alternatively, the agreement makes both fairly detailed provisions and includes an anti-discriminatio
- the agreement contains provision(s) on refugees/displaced persons; these provisions are detailed or include a clear anti-discrimination clause.
- refugees/displaced persons are merely mentioned, the provision can be said to be rhetorical, without detail or substance.
- no references to these groups such as return, and land claims are present

Disabled persons

- the agreement deals with issues of disability or injury in a substantive and substantial way, provid details on implementation modalities; alternatively, the agreement makes both fairly detailed provisions and includes an anti-discrimination clause.
- the agreement contains provision(s) on disability or injury, and these are detailed or include a clear anti-discrimination clause.
- issues of disability or injury are merely mentioned, the provision can be said to be rhetorical, without detail or substance.
- f there are no mentions of any form of disability or injury

Children/Youth



- there is only a mention of children, child rights, youth, young people, or similar; the provision is purely rhetorical
- the agreement contains provisions that concern children, child rights, youth, young people, or similar, and the provision(s) give more detail on the mode of implementation and/or contain an anti-discrimination provision
- the provisions on children, child rights, youth, young people are present, substantive and substantial, giving detail and indicating commitment to implementation; the presence of rhetorical statements does not preclude this score, as long as it is also acc
- the agreement holds no references to children, child rights, youth, young people, or similar

Elderly/Age

- issues related to the elderly or age are merely mentioned, the provision can be said to be rhetorical, without detail or substance.
- the agreement contains provision(s) on the elderly and/or age; these provisions are detailed or include a clear anti-discrimination clause.
- the agreement deals with issues related to the elderly and/or age in a substantive and substantial way, providing details on implementation modalities; alternatively, the agreement makes both fairly detailed provisions and includes an anti-discrimination
- There is no any mentions of older persons, age-based stipulations, or similar.

DATA ANALYSIS

AUDIENCE

Aduience: European peace-loving people（Non-experts）

The new trend of European philanthropy: international humanitarian priority, international donations have exceeded domestic donations.

What data do they need?

They need to know whether these agreements really protect the interests of vulnerable groups, and they need to know the outline of these agreements.

"Looking at the disaster in the distance" ——Hanning Reid

DATA STORY

Beginning

DATA STORY

Middle

DATA STORY
Ending